Prisoner Reviews Story of His Life.

The sentence followed a dramatic statement by King in court, during which he reviewed the story of his life, his flight from Boston and his travels in England, France and Ceylon. He declared that he was innocent of any wrong intent in any of his acts, and in closing his address he accused Thomas W. Lawson of secretly fighting him and bringing him to financial fuin.

bert Parker, also for the defense, argued on the motion that his client had not been found guilty of any specific crime by the jury. Judge Schofield declined to grant the request, and on motion of Aacting District Attorney M. J. Dwyer imposed the sentence. King made an assignment on February 21, 1908. His liabilities were placed at 3297.881 and his assets at 668. He was missing from the city four months, but in June he returned and surrendered to the police.

There was little or no public interest manifested in the gathering of the iegislators, the purpose of the meetings today being merely to pass upon the credentials of members.

For the first time in the history of the republic the house enjoyed the dignity of occupying its own home, having met during the former period of independence in an old tobseco warehouse. The new quarters are quite palatial, though as yet they are seantly furnished.

Contact of the meeting and the attendance of members. Neither senators nor representatives will receive pay when absent from roll calls without leave, and neither house will be permitted to grant leave of absence to more than one-sixth of their memberships at one time. These rules have been the subject of much discussion among the members, and undoubtedly will be amended as soon as the Americans quit the island.
